An Intense Match

A memorable match which I recently had a chance to play was the DBA (District Basketball Association) match held at Parade Ground, Dehradun. A playoff game where I was representing my school The Heritage School North Campus and was facing off against a strong rival team. An electrifying and intense match from the first quarter, we controlled the game in the first half, but the opposition came back stronger in the second half. We were neck to neck with them, and it was clear that this game would be decided in the final seconds. And that was the moment I got tense and felt as if I was losing hope, when, Ms. Diya Chaudhary, a strong tennis player of North Campus, a champion of the ITF Juniors J30 Singles at Ghana came to my mind. As if she spoke courageous words into my ear to not give up when the game gets tough. I remember her words to me... accept the challenge and own it! I got back on my feet with the picture of confident Diya holding her trophy and a willpower in my mind that I will win too and hold my trophy with pride. And yes, we won...! I enquired from my coach and he told me I scored 7 baskets out of 10 attempts! I have a long journey ahead of me still, but the inspiration from Diya will take me forward. "To succeed... you need to find something to hold on to and inspire you." For me Diya is that girl. "Practice like you've never won. Play like you've never lost" Michael Jordan.

IKIGAI-The Book That Changed My Life

In these life changing years of our journey we have read many books in the genre of fiction, non-fiction and anime, but the book that impacted us the most is IKIGAI for Teens Finding Your Reason For Being by Hector Garcia. The book states that one must have an IKIGAI (Reason) to live. If you are born in this world, there must be a purpose. IKIGAI is the intersection of what you can love, what the world needs and what you can be paid for and be reasonable at. It results in a life rich with purpose, gratitude and blessings. A wise person has said "A room without books is like a body without soul". We are happy to have a well stocked library in our school without which we would have not found this book.
